Opinion on Bourg to be issued Friday

BY DENA BISNETTE

Circuit Judge James Thomas said he will provide a verbal opinion on Friday regarding whether Hilda Bourg, who was until recently a member of the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee, may run for Beat Three supervisor.

Bourg had filed a complaint with the Circuit Court after the Hancock County Election Commission disqualified her as a candidate Sept. 12 on the advice of Commission Attorney Gerald Gex.

Bourg, who represented herself rather than obtaining an attorney, appeared Wednesday morning before Thomas to state her objections to the disqualification.

In discussing the case before Bourg made her statements, Thomas stated that he personally would not mind allowing her to run, but stated that as a judge he must comply with the law.

He plans to go to Jackson Thursday and research Bourg's situation at the Supreme Court's law library there.

The Democratic Executive Committee, according to Bourg, is elected by a party caucus. Its members conduct primary elections but do not have anything to do with purging the voter registration roles.

The election in contention is not a primary, but a special election that resulted from the July 30 resignation of a supervisor convicted in "Operation Pretense."

Bourg said she had attended only one executive committee meeting this year, March 21. She submitted a letter of resignation Sept. 8.

"I feel like my constitutional rights are being violated because I was not elected by voter registrants, but by a political caucus...I was told that I could not resign even though the president of the United States can resign his position," Bourg stated.

She added that the executive committee had finally achieved a full membership of 36 people, "but we will be hard-pressed to get people to serve after this." She commented that "there is an awful lot of public feeling in this."

Thomas' reply was "highly so."

The election commission had turned her down based on two precedent cases that had occurred in Mississippi in 1936 and 1987. Meeks vs. Tallahatchie County and Brandy v. Mallett, Gex said.

Bourg contends that those two cases differ from hers in that the person running in the election had actually been involved in the election preparations.

"The problem I have," said Thomas, "is that it was up to just me personally. I would let you run, but in these cases,"

County complies with new legislation, names administrator, purchase clerk

BY DENA BISNETTE

A reorganization in county government to comply with recent legislation will not affect the general public much, but it will affect county purchasing practices and those vendors who provide Hancock County with goods and services.

According to Board of Supervisors President Ronald Cuevas, the changes to comply with House Bill Four, passed during the recent special session of the legislature, will become effective Oct. 1.

The law does not become effective until January, but the county begins its new fiscal year Oct. 1 and the board of supervisors found implementation of the changes to be more practical if timed to coincide with the start of a new budget, Cuevas said.

For the most part, Hancock County was already in compliance with the bill with the exception of the requirements for county administrator and new purchasing regulations, he added.

Chancery Clerk E. Michael Ncaise will be designated county administrator, but the additional title will not change his duties, Cuevas explained.

In addition, Greg Pfeiffer, currently the board's senior secretary, will become purchase clerk.

"The only problem we really had was waiting to see if our system was consistent with state requirements," Cuevas stated.

"We will be notifying all of our vendors as of Oct. 1 regarding the requirements for purchase orders."

Pfeiffer said he has done research on his new job by attending seminars and by visiting the purchase clerk at Pearl River County.

"I called the state auditor's office and they told me Pearl River County was the one really doing it the way the state wants it done," he said in a Tuesday morning meeting in which he briefly outlined the new program for County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson, his foremen and office staff, County Recreation Department Head Hilda Bourg and McLeod Water Park Ranger Joseph Curet.

Under the old system, purchasing requirements were not as strict. Small purchases could be made without first obtaining a purchase order, and larger purchases were handled by County Comptroller Kenneth Walker.

Walker will continue to handle the documentation phase after the purchase is completed, Pfeiffer said.

Now all purchases will require a purchase order authorized and signed by Pfeiffer or a designated assistant purchase clerk. Department heads have already been given purchasing agent designations by the board of supervisors but other arrangements may have to be worked out for times when neither Pfeiffer nor the department heads can be reached.

Even in the case of emergency.

Bay PD detains five juveniles, seeks robber

ARMED ROBBERY

A Bay St. Louis liquor store was robbed Monday evening by a man armed with a wine bottle.

According to Bay Police Investigator Tom Burleson, a black male entered Arrow Liquor Store on Dunbar and purchased a bottle of gin and then returned about 6:30 and selected a bottle of wine. While the cashier had the register open, the man struck him hit over the head with the bottle of wine and stole approximately $200. He fled on foot.

The cashier suffered a laceration over his left eye, according to Burleson.

The suspect is approximately 5 feet, 9 inches tall and weighs between 160 and 180 pounds. He was wearing light blue pants, a light blue hat and a white-and-blue-striped shirt, Burleson said.

AUTO BURGLARY

Two juveniles were charged Monday in connection with the burglary of a sports car in the parking lot of Loiacano's Health Spa.

On Sept. 22 a window of the car had been broken and a radar detector stolen. The merchandise has been recovered, Burleson said.

VANDALISM

Two Bay St. Louis juveniles were detained Wednesday afternoon for vandalizing a vacant building with the use of Satanic symbols.

The two youths allegedly stole five fire extinguishers from Bay Royale Apartments and discharged the contents in an attempt to cover a Satanic pentagram, a six-pointed star with symbols at each point, which had been drawn on the floor of the building.

The two have been charged with malicious mischief and petty larceny. Another arrest is expected, Burleson said.

SEXUAL BATTERY

A 17-year-old male was detained Tuesday night for sexual battery of a 12-year-old girl, according to Bay PD.

The boy, according to Burleson, has been released to the custody of his parents.

Burglar active in Bay; precautions necessary

BY D.C. HARVILL

A burglar has been very active in a Bay St. Louis neighborhood and police want residents of the area to take appropriate precautions.

According to Bay Police Chief Ray Murphy, a burglar has struck four homes between Citizen and Union Streets and Railroad Avenue and Beach Boulevard in the past couple weeks.

"We want people to be aware of what is going on and that we are doing everything we can to catch him. We recommend that they secure all doors and leave an outside light on," Murphy said.

Police are looking for a medium complexioned, black male between 5 feet 9 inches and 5 feet 11 inches tall.

Murphy said, the burglar usually strikes from 12 to 2 in the morning, but that he could hit at anytime and suggests that anything suspicious or anyone fitting that description should be reported to the Bay St. Louis Police.

Hancock Citizens deserve explanation from DA Cannon

The criminal justice system has many flaws that evoke criticism, but the results of one of the system's safeguards, a strictness of procedure, has caused anger and disgust right here in Hancock County.

Due to the fact that District Attorney Glen Cannon's office either overlooked or ignored the need to obtain a court order recalling the January 1988 Grand Jury, all of the indictments handed down by that Grand Jury will have to be redone at the expense and time of everyone involved.

The indictments, handed down in January, were redone in June. This will be the third time.

In testimony that contributed to Circuit Judge James Thomas' decision to quash the indictments, Circuit Clerk Pam Metzler stated that not once in the seven years she has worked in the clerk's office has a Grand Jury been recalled without an order from the judge. Obtaining such an order is a routine procedure.

Metzler also talked about how confused the jurors were when they were recessed without being able to give a final report, then recalled by telephone several months later.

We find it a sad commentary on the whole situation when someone agrees to contribute to his community by taking the time away from work and home to serve on a Grand Jury, then is repaid by being told that his service was in vain.

If the jurors were repaid so poorly for their service, think of the law enforcement officers who conducted the investigations and made the arrests. Time and time again, these people have seen criminals go free because legal technicalities occurred, but is it fair when an entire group of indictments must be thrown away?

Mr. Cannon owes those jurors and law enforcement personnel, not to mention the rest of us, an explanation and an apology.

We were also disappointed to see that Mr. Cannon, who was trying a case elsewhere and was not able to come to Hancock County himself to defend his actions in front of Judge Thomas and Judge Kosta Vlahos. Instead, he sent an assistant who gave the matter his best shot, but could not convince the judges that Mr. Cannon had not bypassed procedure to the extent of rendering it nonexistent.

Judge Thomas understands the law and we feel that he acted correctly in quashing the indictments.

It is not apparent in this case whether Mr. Cannon does not understand the law as well as the judge does, or whether he was merely attempting to shortcut routine procedure.

When someone in any legal capacity attempts to circumvent the law, it leaves an even worse impression on the public than when an ordinary member of the public breaks the law, as people generally feel those educated in law have more of a moral responsibility to uphold it.

We ask Mr. Cannon to pay more attention to that responsibility when the January 1989 Grand Jury is convened so that these indictments will not have to be handed down a fourth time.

Unit system battle is still being waged

The Legislature has declared county unit to be public policy of the state of Mississippi, but don't be misled. The campaign for county unit isn't over yet.

While legislators were proclaiming the unit system as public policy, there were, at the same time, providing for elections on the question in 81 of the state's 82 counties; only tiny Issaquena was exempt.

So, Mississippi voters will find the question of county unit on the ballot in the November 8 general election.

This means there is still work to be done. If you want your county to abandon the wasteful practice of operating five separate road systems and move to the more efficient unit system for road operations, you will want to follow these steps from now through Nov. 8:

1. Take a leadership role in organizing citizens for county unit in your county.
2. Develop information on the advantages of the unit system for distribution in your county. MEC can help with this.
3. Call on the media in your county to editorially support county unit.
4. Challenge your county supervisors to support the unit system.
5. Call on your local chamber of commerce and other civic and educational groups to adopt policy positions in support of county unit.

6. Schedule speakers in your county to talk about the advantages of the unit system.

7. Encourage your family members, neighbors, friends, and business associates to vote for county unit.

8. On Nov. 8, cast your ballot for good government—vote for county unit.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

High school football will be underway full tilt on Friday night with all teams seeing action.

In St. Stanislaus stadium the Rock-a-Chaws will play host to the high flying Hawks of Hancock North Central.

This should be the game of the year thus far for area high school football, as Hancock is highly rated in the state and Stanislaus is at home.

It should be a really good game. The Tigers of Bay High will journey to East Central Friday trying to get back into the win column.

Bay High could take East Central with a good game and good fan support in the stadium.

Pass Christian will have to pull a big upset when they host the Tomcats of Stone County Friday night to take a victory over the visitors. Anything is possible in a high school football game.

The teams need good fan support, and we hope to see you in the stadiums on Friday.

Today eyes should be glued to the television screens for the launch of the shuttle Discovery.

The space shuttle means a lot to the residents of this area as so many have played a role in the preparation of the shuttle engines.

We can remember the time when astronaut Mike Lounge, who is one of the five members of the Discovery team was a guest speaker for a Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's banquet held at Diamondhead.

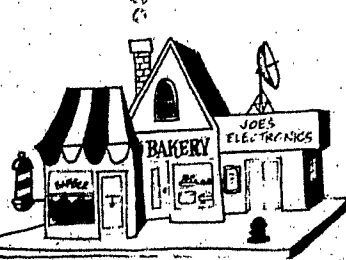

Jane and I along with other chamber members met John and his wife at the Diamondhead Airport and had a noon luncheon with them before the banquet.

It has been a very long time since the United States has had astronauts in space and we are looking forward to today's launch.

We are hoping there will be no delays and everything will go well. Bon voyage!

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

State Lottery would generate millions

The Jacksonian bought 200 Florida lottery tickets recently when the Sunshine State offered its record $55 million jackpot. Hundreds of other Mississippians bought varying numbers of lottery tickets trying to win the Florida jackpot.

Regularly thousands of Mississippians play the Illinois state lottery by mail and watch for the winning numbers shown on a Chicago station that is on several television cable systems in the state.

Evidently lottery jackpots have captured the imagination of an increasing number of Americans. So much so that 27 states are now in the lottery business and four more will vote on a lottery in November.

Across the southern tier of states, however, only Florida so far has installed a state lottery. Such states as Kansas and Iowa, which are comparable in size and demographics to Mississippi, are among those which have initiated a lottery the past two years.

A recent New York Times article on lotteries around the country pointed out that the states which have a lottery regard it as a very useful tool in raising state revenues. "From the states' point of view it's a huge fund-raiser," said Saul F. Leonard, an executive in a Los Angeles-based accounting firm which made a recent study on lotteries.

The profit margin for the state runs as high as 44 percent in New York, and, according to the times, for every $1 lottery ticket sold, states get a net gain of at least 38 cents after paying out prizes and operating expenses.

To legalize a state lottery in Mississippi, the people would have to vote on repealing Section 98 of the 1890 state Constitution. When the last major effort to get a lottery bill through the Mississippi Legislature was made in 1986, the measure passed the House but failed to get the necessary two-thirds vote in the Senate.

It was estimated two years ago that a lottery in Mississippi would generate gross annual sales of $181 million and the state would stand to have a net income of around $75 million.

During the 1986 legislative battle, one lottery company, Scientific Games of Atlanta, a subsidiary of Bally Manufacturing Corporation, made a bonded guarantee of at least $50 million profit per year to the state for five consecutive years if it were chosen as the operator of a Mississippi lottery.

State Rep. Charlie Capps of Cleveland, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, told this column last week he will make a renewed effort to get a lottery bill through the 1989 legislative session to provide a needed new source of state revenue.

Capps, after two weeks of hearings by the Legislative Budget Office on funding requests of state agencies and institutions, said "it is already apparent to me we are going to have to get more money from somewhere to fund the next state budget."

The Bolivar County lawmaker said the Mississippi House has twice passed bills to submit the lottery issue to a statewide vote, and "I think we can pass it in the House again." He said since the present Senate membership has changed somewhat from the body which defeated the lottery measure two years ago, "we may have a better chance over there."

Under the bill he had sponsored in 1986, all the revenues going to the state from a lottery would be dedicated to education.

"I think 65 or 70 percent of the people would vote for a lottery is we ever gave them the chance," Capps declared. "It's time we tried something new in Mississippi. I think we need to go ahead and do it before some of these states around us go into it."

Figures which he has seen, Capps said, show that at least 20 percent of lottery ticket sales in Mississippi would come from surrounding states where there is no lottery.

Clay Cooley, a Jackson-based legislative lobbyist who expects to represent Scientific Games or another lottery company in the next legislative session, pointed out that 5.5 percent of the sale of lottery tickets would go to the retailer or grocery store where the tickets are sold.

"A lottery would not only benefit the state financially but it would also be a considerable source of new income for local businesses," Cooley declared.

Ironically, Mississippi had lotteries back in the 1800s, many of which helped to fund higher education. In fact, Mississippi College, a Baptist institution, was founded with a $25,000 lottery in 1827.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Visitor offers observations on Echo, Waveland, Clermont

To Whom It May Concern,
As a long-time purchaser of The Sea Coast Echo at Garcia's Grocery in Clermont Harbor, may I offer this?

First, your new format is commendable, showing the photos of feature writers. But, really! Such unflattering photographs. Mr. Cuevas reminds me of the wooden picture of George Washington on the $1 bill. Dena Bissette's glasses must be chewed through by now. Mr. Harvill looks like the lurker in the shadows. Can't you guys smile and be natural?

Second, in the letter about the unfortunate teens who have no place to "hang out," please tell us where the "drug hang-out" down the road from Buccanier Park is so we can avoid it. I hope it's not beside Garcia's, where rowdy-looking undesirable hang out daily from afternoon until closing, draped all over the entrance and intimi-dating prospective customers. Incidentally, since the teens need a place to hang out, and Choctaw Plaza doesn't want them, the problem has been solved. As McDonald's doesn't mind the teens because they make up their weekend business, they should all congregate in the McDonald's parking lot and socialize to their hearts' content with the blessing of management.

One more observation. Hats off to the brain who posted three speed limit signs on the beach road just east of Buccanier Park, with speed limits of 25, 30 and 35 miles per hour, all within a block. Kinda reinforces the image of Mississippi to tourists, eh?

This is not meant to pick, it's just observations from a frequent visitor.

Fire destroys Fenton home

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Fire Marshal's Office is continuing an investigation of a fire that destroyed a mobile home in Fenton Monday.

Fire Marshal Jay Marsh stated that the trailer, located on Kiln-Delisle Road, burned about 9 p.m. Monday but the cause of the blaze has not yet been determined. Investigation has revealed that the fire started in a rear bedroom.

Neighbors reported the fire, and a relative contacted the owner of the trailer, Chris Whitfield, who had taken his two small children to visit a family member in Catahoula. His wife was at work at the time of the blaze, Marsh said.

The call was dispatched through Diamondhead Fire Department and the Fenton Volunteer Fire Department responded.

cy purchases; Pfeiffer said the person discovering the necessity for the purchase must contact their department in order to arrange a purchase order.

No matter what the dollar amount of the purchase, an order is required and any invoices not accompanied by such an order can not be paid without violating state purchasing laws.

The new purchase clerk explained to the foremen that this includes such small purchases as bagged ice used by maintenance crews in hot weather or single cans of oil. The new laws are so strict that his office must obtain a quoted price for any item on the day the purchase order is issued, he explained.

Pfeiffer's department will handle all purchases of equipment, including heavy machinery for road and bridge maintenance, supplies, commodities, materials and services used by any department of the county except for departments whose purchases do not have to be approved by the supervisors.

Purchases which have to be bid will still have to be advertised and approved through the supervisors.

The new procedures apply to items under $500 in that they can be purchased without regard to state contract price and without bidding procedures, as long as the prices are not excessive and the usual and customary price for the locality.

House Bill Four also explains that purchases of more than $500 can be made without bidding if the items are bought at state contract price from the vendor designated by the audit department as state contract vendor, or from anyone else not exceeding state contract price.

Under bidding procedures, the county is still required to take the "lowest and best bid."

Vendors who need more information about the new procedures may call Pfeiffer at 467-4231.

Poplarville youth apparent suicide victim

A 17-year-old Poplarville male found shot near the intersection of Highway 603 and Caesar-Necaise Road apparently is a suicide victim.

The youth, 17, was found by a passerby Monday afternoon near Necaise Crossing with a gunshot wound to the head. A .32 caliber handgun was recovered near the victim.

"All indications are that he pulled off the road and shot himself," Hancock Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said.

The youth was transported by Mobile Medic to Poplarville Hospital and then to Forrest General Hospital where he died Monday night.

Sheriff's Investigator Nathan Hoda and John Miller of the Mississippi Highway Patrol are in charge of a continuing investigation.

Doctor charged with assault

A Diamondhead doctor was arrested Sept. 21 and charged with aggravated assault after he allegedly threatened a groundskeeper with a gun.

James M. Foster of Apt. #165 Lanai Drive, Diamondhead, was arrested by Sheriff's Deputy George Burleson after he allegedly pointed what, according to the victim, appeared to be a .22 rifle at the groundskeeper, Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said.

According to the victim he was operating a weed-eater near Foster's apartment when Foster, apparently intoxicated, pulled the gun on him and yelled for him to stop the noise, Peterson said.

Foster is currently out of jail on a $5,000 bond awaiting an Oct. 4 preliminary hearing.

Bourg.....

"These two cases—they're the bottom line on this. It's black and white."

Gex had contended that the two cases showed that Bourg was ineligible to run because party executive members are considered to be the same as election commission members in that they can not run for office before their term expires because of their involvement in the election process, and that the restriction and accompanying penalties apply to executive committee members as well as commission members.

The matter needs to be settled as soon as possible because the ballots are ready to be printed at this point, Election Commission Chairman Charles Gottschalk stated.

Thomas said a general reading of the Breland case indicates an absolute prohibition against Bourg or any member of the committee being allowed to run.

According to Bourg, a second member of the committee, an at-large representative, was qualified to run in the same special election. Without identifying the person, Bourg stated that the committee had notified her of her selection as an at-large representative in March and it was July before a letter of non-acceptance was received.

Scianna seeks District 3 Hancock Supervisor slot

Charles C. Scianna of Bay St. Louis announces his candidacy for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, District Three.

A native of Hancock County and a graduate of the Bay St. Louis Public School System, he has been a rural mail carrier with the U.S. Postal Service for the past 31 years.

Scianna is married to the former Beverly Favre of Bay St. Louis. They are the parents of five sons and four daughters and have 10 grandchildren.

A member of Our Lady of the Gulf Church, Scianna served as a school board member at Our Lady of the Gulf School and is a member of the Knights of Columbus and American Legion Post 139.

He served on the Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds Commission and was active in the Boy Scouts of America as assistant scoutmaster and assistant commissioner for the Cypress District, New Orleans Area Council.

In discussing issues, Scianna stated that he is against any future tax increases and that he intends to work for the progress of the entire county. "As a concerned citizen of Hancock County, I am dedicated to promoting progress in all of the communities of the county including agricultural, business, residential, resort, and retirement. I will be grateful for the vote and support of the people of District Three in the November 8 special election."

Gottschalk announces for Election Commission re-election

Charles F. Gottschalk has announced his candidacy for re-election to the post of District #5 Election Commissioner.

Gottschalk is chairman of the Hancock County Election Commission and has served two terms on the board of directors of the Election Commissioners Association of Mississippi.

A registered professional engineer, Gottschalk has resided in Bay St. Louis for the past 36 years.

He received a degree in industrial engineering from General Motors Institute of Technology and did graduate work at Wayne State University. He also taught at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Citing computerized voter registration and poll books, increase in pay for election workers and the acquisition of new vote tabulators to be used for the first time on Nov. 8 as among the accomplishments of the present Election Commission, Gottschalk stated, "Hancock County is recognized as having the best conducted elections in south Mississippi. I have worked to upgrade the election process for the past eight years and ask the voters of District #5 to allow me to continue to do so."

Gottschalk, husband of the late Eileen McManus Gottschalk R.N., raised seven children in Bay St. Louis, Karl Gottschalk of Durham, N.C., John Gottschalk of Baker, La., Sheila Gottschalk Black M.D. of Waveland, Frederick Gottschalk of Zachary, La., Ann Bobinger R.N. of Gulfport, Mary Moses of Los Angeles, Calif. and Patricia Hutchinson of San Francisco, Calif.

Floyd J. Breaux Sr. of Bay St. Louis also has announced his candidacy in this race.

RELIGION

St. Paul Catholic Church hosts prayer concert Oct. 2

St. Paul Catholic Church on Scenic Drive in Pass Christian will begin the fifth and final semester of the Renew program. Theme of this season is 'Evangelization.'

"The challenge of this final season for the members of St. Paul Parish, in the spirit of evangelization will be to invite alienated and inactive Catholics and the unchurched to 'come and see.' Also involved will be the sharing of the 'good news' and welcoming others, hearing their faith story with hospitality," said Helen Caire, Renew coordinator.

In the spirit of sharing, St. Paul Church and pastor Monsignor Ron Herzog will host a concert entitled 'Music As Prayer' on Sunday, Oct. 2 at 1:30 p.m. The parish invites the public to attend this musical presentation, which takes place on Prayer Commitment Sunday of the Renew program. Admission is free.

Judith D'Angelo, music director at St. Paul's is coordinating the musical presentation. The concert will include religious music for all tastes, from classical Bach and Gounod to spirituals, traditional and contemporary Christian songs.

Featured will be organist Phil Beining, music director at the cathedral in Biloxi; piano accompanist Deborah Lange of Dallas, Texas; several members of the New Orleans Opera Chorus, including Mrs. D'Angelo, Kim Barthel, Mariellen Boudreaux, Eva Earls, Mary Ignal and Linda Prickett; St. Paul organist Tom Bourdin; the St. Paul Choir; and a contemporary Christian music group called the Good News Choir.

A sampling from the program includes 'My Heart Ever Faithful' and 'Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring' by J. S. Bach; 'Ave Maria' by Charles Gounod; 'In Remembrance' from 'Celebrate Life'; 'Steal Away' and 'Swing Low, Sweet Chariot'; 'Agnus Dei' by Georges Bizet; and 'In the Garden.'

Also on the program will be 'Rex Admirabilis,' 'Alleluia' and 'Confitemini' from the nuns' songs in 'The Sound of Music.' The nuns' songs will be performed by Mrs. Boudreaux, Mrs. Earls, Mrs. Ignal and Mrs. D'Angelo, all of whom portrayed nuns in professional theatre productions of 'The Sound of Music' in New Orleans.

A reception in the school gym will follow the concert.

Judith D'Angelo is music director at St. Paul's since January. She is a soprano with the New Orleans Opera Chorus, voice student of Phillip Frohnmayer at Loyola University in New Orleans and has studied classical piano since age seven. She is former music director at Resurrection of Our Lord Church in New Orleans. D'Angelo is member of American Guild of Music Artists and National Association of Pastoral Musicians.

Deborah Lange is a piano student of the late Hazel Rankin of Minden, La. She has accompanied various choirs and soloists for 25 years. Lange and D'Angelo are childhood friends who have worked together in musical circles for 25 years.

Friends from the New Orleans Opera Chorus include Kim

Barthel, Eva Earls and Linda Prickett, soprano; and Mariellen Boudreaux and Mary Ignal, mezzo soprano. All are members of the American Guild of Musical Artists.

Good News Choir, formerly of New Orleans' Resurrection of Our Lord Parish, has now become a group of friends living in Slidell, New Orleans and Pass Christian.

ST. ANN
CHURCH NEWS

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST.

When Jesus finally—with some impatience, I think—taught us who was going to make it into His Kingdom, He did so without reference to doctrinal or sectarian conditions.

He said very clearly that it was mercy, not doctrine; pity, not dogma; love, not credal statements that got you into His company. He said we are welcome into His kingdom if we feed the hungry, clothe the naked, shelter the homeless, comfort the afflicted. And if we don't do these things, we're not welcome.

—Father Bruce Ritter

Confirmation classes are held 4 p.m. in the parish hall the first Saturday of each month an hour before the 5 p.m. Vigil Mass, St. Ann Church.

CCD classes are held each Saturday at 10 a.m. in the parish hall for all grade school children attending public schools.

CYO members meet each Monday at 7 p.m. in the parish hall to plan their fall and winter activities. All youths of the parish are welcome and encouraged to attend these meetings.

Sunday, Oct. 2 at 9:30 a.m. Mass at St. Ann Church will be offered for all members of St. Ann-St. John Altar Society, both living and those deceased.

Latter-Day Saints
conference Oct. 1-2

More than 12,000 members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will gather throughout Mississippi this weekend, Oct. 1-2, to hear broadcasts of the church's General Conference.

Via satellite transmission, members of the church will join with over six and a half million other members throughout the world to hear counsel from their leaders.

Traditional values, family unity and changing lifestyles will be discussed by president Ezra Taft Benson and by his counselors, president Gordon B. Hinckley and president Thomas S. Monson. President Benson is considered by his followers to be a prophet of God.

In addition to the First Presidency, the conference will be addressed by members of the Council of the Twelve Apostles and other general authorities.

The conference will be telecast over the Westar IV satellite in 12 languages: English, Spanish, French, German, Tongan, Samoan, Portuguese, Laotian, Cambodian, Hmong, Vietnamese and Korean.

The Latotian, Cambodian, Hmong and Vietnamese languages will be transmitted only for the priesthood session and Sundays' sessions. The other languages will be transmitted for all sessions.

The members of the Waveland Ward will be viewing this conference via satellite at the chapel on McLaurin Street and Nicholson Avenue. They wish to extend a welcome to anyone who might like to come and join them or watch it on their own satellite.

IN BRIEF

On Wednesday, Oct. 5 from 6 to 7 p.m., a staff of volunteer attorneys will be answering legal questions from the general public at 1-374-4160. This is a toll-free number for all calls in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties. All other calls will be charged to the telephone from which the call is made.

This service is sponsored by the Harrison County Young Lawyers, the South Mississippi Planning and Development District's Area Agency on Aging, and South Mississippi Legal Services Corporation.

The 'First Wednesday Legal Line' offers the public an opportunity to call for legal information and referral services for a specific problem. This service is especially intended for elderly, handicapped and low-income individuals who may not have access to an attorney or who may not know whether the problem requires the assistance of one.

Stennis Visitors Center auditorium invites public to view shuttle launch

America's manned Space Shuttle program is scheduled to resume flight operations today beginning with an 8:59 a.m. CDT launch of Shuttle Discovery from the Kennedy Space Center in Florida. Full coverage of the liftoff and activities following will be aired on the NASA-Select television network at the John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County. The public is invited to join employees in viewing the day's activities in the Visitors Center auditorium.

Powering Space Shuttle Discovery and its five-man crew during the first eight and one-half minutes of the STS-26 mission will be three main engines flight certified at the Stennis Space Center. Stennis has played a major role in the return to flight efforts over the past two and one-half years. An intensive test program at the space center has resulted in the certification of nearly 40 improvements on the shuttle's main engines.

The improvement program was an extension of a process already under way before the accident. However, the 32-month downtime allowed NASA to complete those improvements to fly for the first time on the STS-26 mission. According to NASA officials, most of the changes in the engine are small, but in combination, will result in a significant increase in the engine's safety and durability.

Since testing resumed in June 1986 following the accident, the test program has accumulated 175 tests for a total of approximately 79,775 seconds—the equivalent to nearly 50 missions.

Also during that time, the program has achieved "world-record tests," according to Rear Adm. Richard Truly, NASA's associate administrator for Space Flight.

Truly praised the program's accomplishments while visiting the Stennis Space Center earlier this month for the last Office of Space Flight Management Council meeting before the STS-26 launch.

Stennis' test program has set several world-duration records, first with a 1,000-second firing and then with tests of 2,000- and 2,017-second durations.

Abramowitz to address combined campaign kickoff

The Mississippi Coast Association of Federal Administrators (MCAFA) will launch its 1989 Combined Federal Campaign with a 10 a.m. kickoff at the Naval Construction Battalion Center Gymnasium in Gulfport Sept. 29.

Danny Abramowitz, former New Orleans Saints football star, will be the featured speaker for the event, which is open to the public.

The Combined Federal Campaign is the only authorized charitable fund-raising drive in the federal workplace. MCAFA is responsible for conducting the annual charity drive which solicits contributions from some 25,000 federal employees on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Over the past five years the campaign has raised more than $2.5 million for this worthwhile cause. This year's goal is set at $600,000.

Captain W. J. Zuberhuhler, USN, commanding officer of the Naval Oceanographic Office, is this year's chairman of the MCAFA Combined Federal Campaign executive committee. When interviewed at the John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County, Captain Zuberhuhler stated, "This will be the best campaign ever with the group of enthusiastic coordinators we have put together. Nearly 300 strong, they are aiming to reach every one of the federal employees in the Gulf Coast area. This year's theme is 'Make a Difference. Come join us and make it happen!'

The U.S. Navy Steel Band will provide musical entertainment before the kickoff and refreshments will be served.

Woman in stable condition following Monday accident

BY D.C. HARVILL

A Bay St. Louis woman remains hospitalized following an accident on Highway 90 west of Waveland Monday afternoon.

Grace Taylor, 59, a passenger in a Datsun 280Z sports car driven by Mary H. Brown, 26, also of Bay St. Louis, was injured in a 5 p.m. collision with a Ford Ranger Pickup driven by Joseph M. Lizana, 22, of Clermont Harbor.

Lizana, traveling south onto Lower Bay Road, failed to yield to traffic moving east bound on the highway. Brown tried to avoid hitting the truck but could not, striking it just behind the door on the passenger side, according to witness Jerry Peterson.

The Datsun stopped on the highway, while the truck rolled, coming to rest upside down in the ditch at the east side of Lower Bay Road.

Brown and Taylor were transported to Garden Park Hospital where Taylor remained in stable condition Wednesday afternoon.

Lizana, according to witnesses, was not seriously injured.

COUNTY

AGENT NOTES

By Lee Taylor

Fall has fell, as they say, and beef producers in Hancock County need to start thinking about winter grazing. Now is an excellent time to start land preparation. This week in the Catahoula area several producers are already breaking land for winter annuals.

Ryegrass is our most popular winter grass and may be planted alone or in combination with wheat, rye or clovers. The protein content of ryegrass can sometimes exceed 20 percent. Varieties of ryegrass common to our area are Gulf and Marshall. Good quality hay can be cut from ryegrass if it's cut before it heads out in May.

Ryegrass can be planted in a prepared seed bed, drilled, or overseeded on permanent pasture. Usually you should broadcast 35 pounds of seed per acre and apply 300-400 pounds of 13-13-13 fertilizer at planting. Around December a top dressing of ammonia nitrate will be needed. Growth will continue through mid-May.

Soil Testing

Fall is an excellent time to test your soil. If you need lime it can be applied in the fall and will have reacted with your soil before spring. Remember, don't guess—Soil Test!

Farm Organizations

Two very excellent organizations function here in Hancock County. These organizations help urban and rural residents. One is the Farm Bureau Board of Directors. They are the watchdog for events affecting agriculture. The committee meets monthly and discusses not only insurance, but items that need attention to help make our county a better place to live.

The other organization is the Soil and Water Conservation District. They meet monthly to assess the need for programs to help conserve soil and water.

The SWCD works closely with the Soil Conservation Service in programs relating to our natural resources.

It has been a plan for me to be associated with two organizations here in the county and to enjoy the good working relationship that we have.

THE HANCOCK COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CONGRATULATES TERRELL RANDOLPH, THE HCSB, THE FACULTY AND STAFF, AND WISHES THEM CONTINUED SUCCESS AS THEY WORK TOGETHER FOR PROGRESS IN OUR SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Gershwin lecture to be presented at Stennis Space Center Friday

Dr. Norbert Carnovale, a Biloxi native and professor at the University of Southern Mississippi, will present a special humanities lecture and demonstration titled "S Wonderful 'S' Marvelous 'S' Gershwin!" at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center Sept. 30 in the Gainesville Room of Building 1100. The public is invited to attend the 45-minute program which will begin at 11:30 a.m. Carnovale's lecture is a tribute to George Gershwin's life and music, with a selection of recorded performances, many of them by Gershwin himself, and recorded personal comments by the American composer. The lecture is enhanced by a series of slides of photographs, caricatures, sheet music covers and musical scores relevant to Gershwin's work and times. Scenes from Woody Allen's movie "Manhattan," which employs Gershwin music throughout, and a film clip of the ballet based on "An American in Paris" from the 1951 motion picture of the same name will climax the presentation.

Carnovale, a scholar and author, has served five years as chairman of USM's School of Music. He holds music degrees from Louisiana State University, Teacher's College of Columbia University and the University of Iowa.

USM is one of the state agencies in residence at the Stennis Space Center, and Carnovale's presentation is jointly sponsored by NASA and USM. The program is made possible by funding from the Mississippi Humanities Council through its speakers bureau program. The Humanities and Quest for Meaning.

Coast Episcopal Homecoming Court announced

Coast Episcopal High School will celebrate its 1987-88 Homecoming on Saturday, Oct. 1 against the Columbia Academy Cougars. The game will be played on the St. Stanislaus field in Bay St. Louis. Kickoff is 2 p.m.

Selected for the CEHS homecoming court is freshman maid Kathryn Blair Shellnut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shellnut of Pass Christian. Shellnut is freshman class president and a member of the French Club and the Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). She is a member of the CEHS basketball and track teams.

Sophomore maid is Melissa Kay Cornelius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Galle of Biloxi. Cornelius is a Raider cheerleader, secretary of the sophomore class and a member of the Society of Distinguished American High School Students. She is a member of the Princess Shop Teen Board, the Spanish Club and SADD.

Junior class maid is Virginia Li Edwards, daughter of Mrs. Lifwa Edwards of Gulfport and Mr. Bruce Edwards of Long Beach. Edwards is vice president of the junior class and the Spanish Club. She is a member of the Coast Quarterly staff, the yearbook staff, and the National Honor Society. She is a member of the Lady Raiders basketball team.

Senior class maid is Malise Merrill Marchal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marchal of Pass Christian. Marchal is the senior class vice president and the business manager of the yearbook. She is a member of the National Honor Society, the Thespian Society, and the CEHS Quiz Bowl.

The other senior class maid is Tracy Donnell Dillistone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Dillistone of Pass Christian. Dillistone is the vice president of the CEHS Student Council, president of SADD, captain of the cheerleaders, and editor of the Coast Quarterly.

The homecoming court will be presented during half-time, and the queen, who is elected by the football team, will be crowned during the ceremonies.

During homecoming week, the high school will have costume contests and class projects. On Friday, pre-homecoming festivities will begin with a church service held in the new, soon-to-be-completed chapel. A pep rally will be held in the afternoon.

The day will end with the homecoming dance at the Diamondhead Community Center.

SSC Rocks gunning for 11th ranked Hancock Hawks

Two explosive football teams will meet Friday evening when the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws host the Hancock North Central Hawks in a District 4A contest at Rock-A-Chaw stadium.

Hancock North Central, ranked 11th in the state this week, is 4-0 with impressive wins over several worthy opponents, including a 27-0 shutout over Poplarville. St. Stanislaus is 3-1, having defeated Long Beach 34-0 last Friday.

SSC head coach Ken Lyons is very concerned about Friday's game.

"Hancock is by far the best team we will face this season. They are big, strong and play very physical football. They completely dominated a highly-regarded Poplarville team two weeks ago," Lyons said.

In last year's game, HNC scored 21 points in the first quarter en route to a 55-12 thumping of the Rock-A-Chaws.

Lyons said the Rocks will do nothing different to prepare for the Hawks.

"We'll stay with what's been successful for us both offensively and defensively thus far this season. But, I'll tell you this—we must battle them man for man at the line of scrimmage. If we don't play aggressive football, it could be a long night for us."

Defensive coordinator Larry Ramsey added, "Defensively, we must contain Terrance Goff and Jeff Moran. If we let Goff get outside of our ends, as quick as he is, they'll kill us. And Moran runs the offense as good as anyone we've faced this year. We've got to play error-free football to stay with them."

Hancock head coach Irving Favre said, the Rock-A-Chaws are strong local rivals with very skilled players.

"Their skilled people are every bit as good as our skilled people. The determining factor will be the defensive and offensive lines," Favre said.

"St. Stanislaus has a very good passing attack, we definitely have to put pressure on them. They are definitely going to give us a fight.

Favre said the Hawks won't change their strategy.

"It will be a good spectator game; both teams have the power to win it," he said.

The Hawks' main goal is to get to the play-offs Favre said.

"St. Stanislaus has more depth than we have. We just hope it doesn't come down to that. I think our kids will rise to the occasion and play well," Favre added.

HNC runs a Wing-T offense which relies on power and ball-control, while SSC runs a Slot-I basic set which allows for a run/pass type of offense.

Favre is assisted at HNC by Rocky Gaudin, Tim Favre, Joe Shaw and Andy Perniciaro. Assisting Lyons at SSC are Larry Ramsey and Andy Kivlan.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. at SSC. A capacity crowd is expected.

Tigers to start tough half of season with East Central

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay High Tigers head into the tougher part of their schedule Friday as they travel to Hurley to face the East Central Hornets.

Although the teams are about evenly matched in player size, East Central is a 4-A school with a 3-1 record while Bay High is a 3-A school that has not fared well in the win-loss column this season.

According to Tiger Head Coach Bob Lumpkin, Bay High's play has improved as the season has progressed, particularly in last week's game against Vancleave.

However, the Tigers will have to watch for a couple of Hornets who could stir up some trouble.

"They have an outstanding quarterback," Lumpkin said. "His name is Stacy Simmons. He's a small kid but he's quick and he runs the option real well."

He also praised Allan

Rudolph, an East Central defensive end.

"We'll have to make sure we block him on every play because he gets to the ball quickly," the coach said.

"We played better last week than we have been," Lumpkin said, referring to Bay High's game against Vancleave. "We lost 36-21 but we were ahead 12-0 by the end of the first quarter."

Bay High, undergoing a rebuilding year due to loss of most of last year's experienced players through graduation, will have to fight a few problems during the second half of the season, which Lumpkin said pits the Tigers tougher teams than the first half.

Those teams include Long Beach, St. Martin, Hancock North Central and St. Stanislaus.

"We played better last week, particularly on offense. We are still not getting the job done on defense. The effort is there, but we don't have much speed," he said.

"With the exception of the Pearl River Central game, we have been making some improvements on offense all week."

He said senior tight end Tim Allen, playing his first year of high school football, has shown steady improvement.

Another starter, Heath Hopgood, is the team's more experienced tackle, but he and newcomer Billy Ceivas are "Doing a good job," Lumpkin stated.

Brian Favre, a junior, is doing well at guard but needs to become bigger and stronger during the off-season. Doral Nichols, Bay High's veteran guard, has been hampered by a hand injury but has been doing well recently, particularly in his defensive position as noseguard.

"We have been having a lot of problems with the center position," the coach said. "We've played only two of our four games with the same center." That center is junior Cliff Savage, who has been improving each week and is expected to continue as a starter.

Lumpkin said Travis Haynes, a veteran player but in his first year in the backfield, had not been very productive the first few weeks of the season but is looking better. Another running back, Darrin Washington, scored two touchdowns last week.

Douglas Rhodes, a senior flanker, has performed well and been a consistent blocker.

Rounding out the backfield is quarterback Charlie Mitchell. "He is really dedicated and he gets better every week because he works at it," Lumpkin said.

On the defensive side, Nichols led the Tigers in tackles last week with four unassisted tackles and a blocked kick. "This week we should see a lot of action from him," Nichols said.

Trinity Saints down CEHS Raiders, 32-0

Coast Episcopal High School failed to capitalize on key third down conversions and fell to the Trinity Saints of Natchez 32-0. Despite moving the ball well, the Raiders were forced to turn the ball over six of seven times in the first half inside their own 40. Trinity converted the Raider miscues into three first-half touchdowns. The second half saw Raider improvement, but it was too little too late. Defensive standouts for the Raiders were Billy Guice, Hutson Lambert and Johnny Mount. Guice blocked a PAT. Offensive standouts included the play of Scott Hourin at center and the passing combination of quarterback Rea Montjoy to Billy Guice. Sterling Thibodeaux continues to be a power back amassing 52 yards on eight carries. The Raiders' next home game is against Columbia Academy at 2 p.m. on Oct. 1 at St. Stanislaus field.

UM athletic fund drive passes $4 million mark

The Drive for Athletics at Ole Miss has raised more than $4 million for The University of Mississippi's sports facilities, and school officials are delighted.

"We're very, very pleased," said Athletic Director Warner Alford. "We kicked it (the drive) off last September with an $8 million goal and we've reach half that goal this month."

Individual goals for the drive include raising funds to complete a new baseball stadium, renovate the football stadium, construct an indoor practice facility and improve the track, golf course and tennis complex. Three of the projects are well underway.

Oxford-University Stadium is expected to be completed by mid-October, just in time for the baseball Rebels' 10-game fall schedule. It has covered seating for 3,000 fans; ample parking, concessions and rest rooms; television facilities and AAA lighting so games can be played at night.

Vaught-Hemingway Stadium is getting a new press box with 29 privacy boxes, club-level seating, maintenance-free benches, new rest rooms and concessions stands and ramps for the handicapped. Fans will get a peek at the stadium's face-lift Oct. 15, the day the football Rebels play their first home game in Oxford.

The University golf course has new culverts to improve drainage and a two-million-gallon reservoir to supply water to a future irrigation system. Also to come is an expanded system of cart paths to preserve the fairways.

Now that these three projects are well in hand, Ole Miss officials plan to focus their attention to the drive's remaining goals—construction of the indoor practice facility and additions to the tennis complex and track. Plans for the practice facility include a weight room, three tennis courts and an area with artificial turf so virtually all sports can practice on it. Plans for the track and tennis complex include the addition of bleachers and service building.

Architects are already designing the practice facility and additions for the tennis complex.

Alford and other university officials are counting on a surge of pride in the improvements already being made to keep the drive's momentum going.

"We have a long way to go," he stated. "We know we haven't reached all our supporters and friends. Our success, in the end, will depend on whether we can get all our people participating in the drive. We need everyone doing whatever they feel comfortable doing."

Those wishing to help with the drive should send their tax-deductible contributions to: The Drive for Athletics, The University of Mississippi Foundation, P.O. Box 249, University, MS 38677.

Deer archery season to begin October 1

Mississippi's first either-sex archery season for deer gets underway this coming Saturday, Oct. 1. The 49-day season extends through Nov. 18.

Latest estimates from the state Department of Wildlife Conservation indicate that Mis-issippi's over 50,000 bowhunters last year took almost 25,000 whitetailed deer, the state's most sought-after big game animal.

The bag limit on deer during this archery season is one buck with antlers visible above the natural hairline per day, not to exceed five per license year. In addition one antlerless deer per day may be taken, but not to exceed three per license year.

According to some many biologists, the hard wood mast crop across the state in many locations has been relatively good. This finding comes in the wake of the recent drought conditions across the Southeast.

Hunting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Hunters should have a valid hunting license printed and on their person before commencing

Tigers.....

Buddy Bourn, a senior who is coming back from a knee injury last year and has been performing consistently well this year, is expected to start at defensive end along with Favre, Lumpkin added.

Washington and Haynes will alternate as linebackers. An additional linebacker scheduled to start is David LeGros, a junior who Lumpkin said "is playing real tough" despite the fact that he has not played football since seventh grade.

Rhodes will start at cornerback along with Alvin Dedeaux, who is playing for his first year in the defensive secondary and is "real aggressive," the coach added.

Safeties are Allen and Chuckie Dorsey, a sophomore who has made a lot of progress this year, Lumpkin said.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. at East Central Stadium.

Junior Hawks beat SSC to go 4 and 0

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Hancock North Central seventh and eighth grade Hawks football team shut out St. Stanislaus' junior high team 34-0 in Monday night action.

In the first quarter Hawks' halfback Sherman Davis scored on a 36-yard run putting Hancock on the board with 6 points. The extra point attempt was no good.

In the second quarter Davis returned a pass interception 42-yards for a touchdown. The PAT was no good, giving the Hawks a 12-0 lead.

Davis then scored again on a 4-yard run and with a 2-point conversion pass from quarterback Scotty Davis to split end Lance Wedgeworth the Hawks ended the first half leading 20-0.

The Hawks scored in the third quarter with a 3-yard run by Dennis and a conversion pass from Scotty Davis to Sherman Davis for a score of 28-0.

Fourth quarter action saw Hancock score with a TD by Matthew Harmon. The PAT attempt failed and the Hawks, 4 and 0 for the season, finished the game with a 34-0 shut-out.

Hawks' players intercepting passes, in addition to Sherman Davis, in Monday's game are Scotty Davis, Chris Schmidt and Hayward Fleming.

To date the junior Hawks have scored 97 points, while their defense, under the direction of defensive coach Andy Perniciaro, has allowed only eight points to be scored against them.

Hancock's tally of victims in addition to SSC are: St. John, 12-0; Charles B. Murphy, 29-8 and Gulfview, 22-0.

The Junior Hawks' next game will be 5 p.m. Oct. 17 at Pearl River Central.

In other action Hancock's high school junior varsity team beat SSC 14-6 in overtime action. Regular play ended with a 6-6 tie. Jeff Favre scored for the Hawks on a 3- and a 2-yard run. Skipper Billeaud scored 2 points on a conversion pass from Reagan Ladner to end the game 14-6.

Hancock's junior varsity B-team is 1 and 1 for the season, having dropped last week's game to Poplarville 6-0.

Reynolds named Carey cheerleader

The William Carey College Men's and Women's Basketball Cheerleaders have been selected for the 1988-89 school year. Kristin Reynolds of Pearl River is a member of the squad.

Reynolds, the daughter of Chandler Reynolds, is a sophomore elementary education major. She is a graduate of Hancock North Central High School.

Favre passes for 301 yards against E. Carolina

Just when you think you've seen his best, sophomore quarterback Brett Favre picks it up a notch and sets new standards.

He broke his own single game passing yardage mark Saturday against East Carolina with 301 yards on 17 of 26 (no interceptions) and one touchdown. That scoring strike moved him into a first place tie (at 20) with his current coach, Jeff Bower, and Billy Jarrell.

He also now is ninth in the alltime completions list with 131, and is just seven away from passing current USM graduate assistant coach Dane McDaniel and moving into eighth place. He also is eighth on the total yardage list (1,992) and ninth on the attempts list (298). He also improved his completion percentage for the season thus far to an even 50 percent on 52 of 104.

PRC defeats rival Jones, 31-14

Pearl River won the '88 edition of the Cat fight Saturday night in Poplarville.

After giving up seven points, the Pearl River Wildcats roared to a 24-7 advantage and eventually a 31-14 victory over the Jones Bobcats.

The PRC victory ended the long-running rivalry at 28-28-2. It also gave the Wildcats a 1-0-1 South Division ledger and a 2-1-1 overall mark. Jones fell to 0-2 in the division and 2-2 overall.

"I'm really pleased with our effort," said Mike Nelson, the Wildcats' head coach. "We almost put together four complete quarters of play."

As Nelson noted, the Wildcats can't stay up too long after this game because they have to call on the Gulf Coast Bulldogs Saturday in Biloxi. That game is scheduled for 6 p.m. in the Yankee Stadium.

The Bobcats opened the scoring on a 33-yard touchdown pass from Leonard Williams to Robert Thompson with 10:51 left in the first half. Matt Wilshire's point after was good to put Jones up 7-0. The Wildcats turned around on the next drive to even the score at 7-7 on a 81-yard pass play from Eric Brister to Nolan Booker. Malter Scobel's kick was good.

Running back Roland Johnson slammed into the end zone from one yard out following a high punt snap that the Wildcats recovered on the 16-yard line, and Pearl River took a 14-7 halftime lead.

PRC increased its lead to 21-7 on a one-yard Eric Brister run with 4:19 left in the third quarter. An early 21-yard fourth quarter Malter Scobel field goal put Pearl River up 24-7.

Jones made one last score in the fourth quarter on a one-yard run by Williams. Wilshire made the point after to narrow the Wildcat lead to ten.

Pearl River put the game out of reach on a one-yard touchdown run by Tony Lewis. Scobel split the uprights to increase the Cat lead to 31-14.

Picayune running back Demetric Hall led the Wildcats' 153-yard rushing attack with 21 carries for 112 yards. Roland Johnson added 28 yards on 10 attempts.

Nolan Booker burned the Jones defense for 138 yards and one touchdown on three receptions. Quarterback Eric Brister completed nine of 19 passes with one interception for 197 yards.

Memphis State entertains MSU Bulldogs

Recently renovated Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium in Memphis, Tenn. is the scene of the action Saturday night as Mississippi State's Bulldogs do battle with the Memphis State Tigers in the Mid-South's "Battle of the MSUs."

The two teams completed September competition with identical 1-3 records and are looking to bounce back from Saturday setbacks on the road. The Bulldogs dropped a 17-0 decision to unbeaten and 20th-ranked Florida in Gainesville, Fla. while the Tigers were felled by a late field goal in a 20-19 loss to Tulane in New Orleans, La.

Gale Sayers on SPORTS

Offensive Linemen

Offensive linemen do not get the credit they deserve for contributing to the success of great running backs. Linemen are the key to any running back's success, whether he gains 10 yards or whether he gains an inch.

One of the things you hear all the time about great running backs on unsuccessful teams is that while the back may be good, the team just doesn't have good players. It's been said many times that the Chicago Bears didn't have good teams when I played. Yet I led the league in rushing two separate years. The same thing was said early in Walter Payton's career when he gained about 1,500 yards a year for five or six years and the Bears still lost eight or nine ball games a year.

But anytime, anytime you have a running back gain that much yardage, somebody's doing something up front. I don't care if you're talking about a 10-1 team or a 1-10 team, somebody has to be moving out the defense. If a team wins only five games all year and a running back gains 1,500 yards on the season, somebody's doing something.

A running back has to develop a good relationship with the linemen, and he has to let them know that they are much appreciated. Linemen know that if they have a great back, an Eric Dickerson or a Walter Payton or an O.J. Simpson, if they just hold off their defender for a 10th of a second, that great back has the ability to make that brush block into a 10 yard gain or touchdown. They know a great back will find a way to get there. On my teams, guys like Bob Wetoska and Mike Rabold were doing something right for Gale Sayers to lead the league in rushing and to gain over a thousand yards on the season. They did things right.

Since I played in the '60s, a few things have changed for linemen. Linemen today are 20 to 30 pounds heavier than when I played. Rule changes have made the offensive linemen a little better because when I was playing they couldn't extend their arms, they had to hold them to their chest. Now they can extend their arms and defensive players can't use the head slap anymore. Back when the head slap was allowed, Deacon Jones was tremendous and did a great job at it. Now many times the defense is at a disadvantage.

Holding penalties can be frustrating as a back when you have a long run called back. But a lineman is trying to do the best job he can and he wants the play to be successful. Many times if he thinks he can get away with it, a lineman will hold. Because offensive linemen now can extend their arms, there is probably holding on 80 percent of the plays, but officials don't call it unless it's a real flagrant thing where a defender is pulled down.

It was harder to hold in the past, but some players were very good at it. Conrad Dobler of the Cardinals was the key culprit. But when you had Deacon Jones out there or Bob Lilly or Alan Page, an offensive player would invariably get a holding call on him. You have to hold every now and then. What can you do? You're trying to make the play work and sometimes it happens.

Gale Sayers is considered one of the greatest running backs of all time. The former Chicago Bear is a member of the National Football League's Hall of Fame.

Bassin' with the pros

How to handle rough water

The wind, they say, is the great equalizer in fishing. It can also be one of an angler's greatest enemies because of the rough water it creates.

Sooner or later every bass fisherman will get caught in rough water and be forced to take one of two choices: head for a safe shoreline or try to make a long and dangerous run back to the launching ramp.

With today's modern bass boats and high performance engines, running rough water is safer than ever before, but it still requires skill and

"Trim your motor down as far as possible to keep the propeller in the water," Bruce adds, "and keep your hand on the throttle. It's critical to keep the nose of the boat up, and you do this by speeding up as you climb a wave, then slowing down as you go down the wave."

"You can't simply shoot over the tops of big waves. You have to climb them on one side and descend them on the other. If you go too fast, the boat will simply dive right into them."

Normally, it is better to head into the waves at a slight angle rather than head on. This eases discipline.

"The one thing that gets boaters into trouble quicker than anything else is trying to go too fast," says Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member Mickey Bruce. "Just about the time you think you can really zip over the waves, you take one over the bow and the boat swamps."

The first thing to do, says Bruce, is make certain you and everyone else in your boat have life preservers strapped on, and remain calm. Equipment should also be stored in tackleboxes or lockers.

the pounding stress on the boat's hull and also makes riding a little more comfortable.

"Sometimes, the best course of action is to run in the troughs between the waves, tacking across them gradually," says Bruce, who annually sees his share of rough water while fishing professional tournaments throughout the United States.

"When you do this, you run as far as you can, then quickly turn up over the wave in front of you and head back down the next trough. It's dangerous because the boat is actually broadside to the waves, but sometimes the spacing of the waves doesn't allow you to go straight up and over them."

Sometimes a fisherman will be able to ride with the waves if the wind is blowing from the right direction. This is much easier than heading into the waves, but still requires total concentration and careful driving.

"Again, the keys are not to panic and to keep the propeller in the water by going slow. If the prop breaks out of the water and cavitates, ease back on the throttle slowly until you feel it bite again, then accelerate," says the Evinrude Outboards pro.

If you want to try to get back to your launching ramp by hugging a shoreline, says Bruce, make certain you travel on the windward side where the wave action will be less. Traveling on the other side where waves are breaking means taking a chance of getting swamped by them.

In this tournament boat, Bruce keeps a spare propeller, a four-blade OMC Shooter, which he puts on if he knows he's going to encounter rough water during the day. His boat is also equipped with a hydraulic jackplate that permits raising and lowering the engine several inches for optimum performance under adverse conditions.

"Today the strength and buoyancy of bass boats is much better than it was just five years ago," says Bruce. "Rough water can still be a problem, but it's not as big a problem as once a person doesn't panic and doesn't try to race through the waves at top speed."

Gulf Coast to host PRC Saturday as Wildcats face back-to-back rivals

Mike Nelson and his Pearl River College Wildcats will wait until late Saturday night, Oct. 1, to celebrate their 31-14 Sept. 24 victory over the Jones Bobcats.

It will begin right after the Pearl River-Gulf Coast game in Biloxi. That is if the Wildcats are fortunate enough to upend the George Sekul Bulldogs.

For the first time since 1969, the Pearl River Wildcats have two arch-rivals back-to-back on the schedule. The '88 Cat fight is over, but there is little time to rejoice as the Cats must jump into the 'dawg pen.'

Nowhere in America can you find better junior college football, or really any kind of football, than when Jones, Gulf Coast and Pearl River tangle.

When these South Division powers meet, the competition is intense and the outcome is super important. Usually a playoff berth is at stake. Every year bragging rights are up for grabs.

For Pearl River the two biggest games of the year are coming seven days apart.

Last Saturday the Wildcats whipped the Bobcats 31-14 in the Dobie Holden Stadium. Nelson called the game the best overall performance of the year for his young Cats.

"It was the best showing by our offense and defense all year long," said Nelson. PRC has a 2-1-1 overall record and a 1-0-1 ledger. "We were ready to play ball. I was impressed," said Nelson.

Nelson said he celebrated for about an hour and then immediately began thinking about Gulf Coast—a team he spent eight years with before becoming head master of the Wildcats back in 1985.

"There is no time to rest on your laurels or accomplishments," said Nelson. "We have Perk Saturday night."

While PRC was beating the Bobcats, the Bulldogs were handing the East Central Warrior a 21-0 shutout for a 2-0 South mark. Overall the Bulldogs are 2-2.

"The game Saturday night is very important for both teams," said Nelson. "The winner will turn-the-corner in good shape for the home stretch."

"Gulf Coast is playing good ball this year," said Nelson.

Last year the Wildcats defeated the Bulldogs 33-7 in Poplarville and posted a 5-5 mark.

Gulf Coast, on the other hand, won only two games in '87. It was the first losing season in more than 20 years at Gulf Coast.

The Bulldogs are still running the no-huddle offense and the same defense they have run for years. "We will be playing them at their best," said Nelson. Gulf Coast defeated Southwest 26-23 and lost to Holmes 12-7 and Northwest 35-20. Both are undefeated and ranked in the nation's top 20.

Nelson said he expected the Bulldogs to throw the ball a lot more than they have in the past. "The Bulldogs have two good quarterbacks in Chris Pettus and David Davis," said Nelson. "They are both very quick."

Nelson was also very complimentary of defensive end Eric Drakes and linebacker Edrack Quave. Size-wise the two teams are about the same.

By the way, the last time PRC played Jones and Gulf Coast back-to-back was when Dobie Holden was head coach. That '59 season the Wildcats upended Gulf Coast 24-7 and Jones 28-14.

There have been only five other consecutive match-ups, including 1937 '38, '39, '40 and '55. The '59 year was the only time PRC won both games.

MILITARY MENTION

PETTY OFFICER ARCHER

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class John W. Archer, whose wife, Rene, is the daughter of Earl C. and Diann Bennett of Pearl River, recently returned from a six-month Mediterranean deployment aboard the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

While deployed, Archer participated in Dragon Hammer 88, a NATO exercise conducted with Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands, Turkey, France, Spain and the United Kingdom. The exercise is designed to improve combat effectiveness, readiness, coordination and operation between joint sea, amphibious and air forces.

In addition to the military exercises, he also made port visits to France, Spain, Turkey, Israel and Italy.

A 1980 graduate of Temple Christian School, Slidell, La., he joined the Navy in July 1980.

USM to host Louisville

The University of Southern Mississippi will entertain the Louisville Cardinals Saturday in Roberts Stadium as coach Curley Hallman and his charges continue to try to insure themselves of a spot in the Dec. 23 Independence Bowl in Shreveport, La.

The Eagles are coming off a game at East Carolina while the Cardinals last week played at North Carolina.

USM leads the series with coach Howard Schnellenberger's club 10-3-1 after taking last year's game in Louisville 65-6. In that game, the Golden Eagles rolled up 519 yards of offense including 402 on the ground, scoring 24 points in the first period, 13 more in the second and 28 in the third while giving the Cardinals just one fourth period score.

USM had a pair of punt block touchdown returns in that game, one by Eric Redd and the other by John Baylor. Chris McGee had a pair of TD receptions from Brett Favre who threw three scoring strikes during the game. It proved to be USM's biggest point total of the season.

Following this week's game, the Eagles hit the road for games at Tulane, Oct. 8 at 3 p.m.; with Mississippi State in Jackson, Oct. 15 at 1:30 p.m.; and at Southwestern Louisiana, Oct. 22 at 7 p.m. before returning home for the final home game of the season, Oct. 9 against Memphis State. The 'Tiger visit also will highlight homecoming for the Eagles.

The Cardinals own an impressive victory over a good Memphis State team and will present such offensive threats as running back Deon Booker, quarterback Jay Gruden along with a veteran offensive line. The Cards show 44 returning lettermen including 15 starters. Louisville lost only two offensive starters off last year's team that went 3-7-1, but beat a strong Tulane team in the process.

USM will counter with a steadily improving offensive line, a host of strong running backs, the quarterback duo of Brett Favre and Ailrick Young; a maturing defensive backfield; and the punt return threat of James Henry who is within a couple of TD returns of matching the NCAA's all-time record in that department. He had his first of the year against Virginia Tech, a 44-yarder, and now has five career TD returns.

Tickets to the Louisville game, along with all other Golden Eagle games, remain on sale at the athletic ticket office located in Green Coliseum on the USM campus. For additional information concerning tickets, call 1-266-5418.

Q. On February 23, 1847, Colonel Jefferson Davis "Mississippi Rifles" confronted the Mexican Army at Buena Vista, Mexico. The Mississippians, outnumbered five to one, routed the Mexicans. What was Colonel Davis' famous battle cry of that day?
A. "Stand Fast, Mississippians!" is the motto still used today by the 1st Battalion, 155th Infantry, headquartered in McComb. The unit, formerly the 1st Mississippi Regiment, is the seventh oldest military unit in the United States.

Q. Which is older, the Mississippi Army National Guard or the state of Mississippi?
A. The Guard. Territorial Governor Winthrop Sargent issued an order on September 8, 1798 calling for the militia to be organized. Mississippi gained statehood in 1817, 19 years later, becoming the 20th state in the union.

SECTION C

Progress continuing on 911 project

BY DENA BISNETTE

Progress on the Hancock County's enhanced 911 emergency system is continuing and people are receiving their new addresses in conjunction with the new program.

The enhanced 911 program uses the same three-digit telephone number as the 911 system already available in parts of the county, but provides emergency service agencies with considerably more information than the existing system.

Someone making a 911 call on the existing system would have to be able to give his location in order to receive help.

With the enhanced system, the dispatcher receiving a call would receive a computer read-out of the telephone number and address from which the call is placed, along with the names of the people living there or the owners and managers of the business.

Additional information regarding the property is also provided and more comments, such as "resident is confined to wheelchair" can be added to assist the responding law enforcement officers, firefighters or ambulance service.

Hancock County Tax Collector and Assessor Edward Murtagh's office is currently working on the part of the project which will provide the computerized information, with assistance from Ron Simms of South Mississippi Planning and Development District. Murtagh said Simms, who worked on the implementation of Harrison County's enhanced 911 system, provides the computer programs.

The entire project is being overseen by a committee consisting of representatives from local emergency service agencies.

New state legislation has required that all streets be named and all structures be numbered, which coordinates with the 911 project.

According to Murtagh, all of the necessary mapping has been completed and each road has been assigned high and low numbers. For example, the first house on a road is designated 101, the second is 102, and so forth, Murtagh said.

All the information has also been computerized, he added.

Murtagh said much of the work required for this project is also required for other purposes, and that the county was able to save "thousands of dollars" by meshing land rolls, homestead exemption records, reappraisal maps and State Highway Department Maps.

"We're finding that since the (aerial) photography was done in 1981, there have been some changes," he noted. "We're also updating our maps."

Right now, the office's field representatives are going door-to-door to verify the information and give people their new addresses.

Instead of rural route numbers, county residents are being given house numbers and street addresses like city residents.

Roads that have yet to be named are numbered. The name is substituted for the number after the residents along the road petition the board of supervisors for a specific name.

On Mondays, the field personnel meet in the office to go over the information they have verified during the previous week and to correct any mistakes in the records, Murtagh explained.

"We're being educated as we go," he said.

Field personnel include Christy LaFontaine, Margie

Schmitt, Vickie Walters and Candee Breaux. Mapper Gina Seymour said she will soon start going into the field on Mondays.

The verification work is expected to continue until October 1989, because there are more than 11,000 parcels in the unincorporated part of the county.

The field workers distribute letters explaining the procedure to residents. At houses where no one is home, they leave a return mail envelope and a simple form giving the old and new addresses and the date the new address becomes effective.

Anyone receiving the letters should return the form as soon as possible, and new addresses should not be used until the effective date to avoid confusion at the post office.

Once the mapping and field work are completed, the necessary computer equipment will have to be installed at the dispatching points before the enhanced 911 system can be put into operation.

Side Street Crossings

By Dena Bisnette

Normally when a newspaper or magazine runs a spread on fashion, I don't pay attention unless I have some money I really want to spend.

About a week ago, though, The Sea Coast Echo ran a fashion spread and my editor, Janet McQueen, wrote about local buying habits.

I read it and the main thing I remember was her comment about hemlines going up and down this season.

She said most hemlines are getting longer because older women don't like mini-skirts. Only juniors are buying mini-skirts.

What about that small group of older women with good legs? What are we supposed to buy?

There is probably a male designer behind all of this whose aim is to entice women into spending all kinds of money on skirts and dresses. That way, the ladies have one in every length and the designers get rich.

Male designers sure have gotten us into a lot of crazy situations, but I have a solution for this one.

I am designing a convertible skirt. If a car can have a roof that's open or closed at the driver's will, I can have a skirt that's short or long as I choose.

It works this way: the top part of the skirt is made like a normal skirt of the straight type, the ones the teens like to wear in T-shirt fabrics and professionals like to have made of linen to go with their dress-for-success jackets. It's a mini-length, stopping halfway down the thigh.

A section that ends just below the knee buttons onto the bottom of the mini, with maybe a third section that ends between the knee and the ankle buttoned on to that.

Fad lovers will want the buttons to show, with every one of them a different bright color. More conservative women might want hidden buttons, while teens might prefer visible zippers or even velcro. The convertible skirt could go western with pearlized snaps.

If you want to change length during the day, unbutton a section and toss it back into the closet.

That settles my problem. Now if I can just figure out how to keep the buttons from sticking into the backs of my legs when I sit.

Now, what do I do about the other crazy things?

Take shoes, for instance. Take all of mine with heels over two inches high, please. Send them to Mrs. Marcos.

I am convinced that high heels were designed by a man who had trouble with his women running away.

He was probably the same guy who designed the corset, the long-line bra, the girdle and all that other confining stuff.

For years I hated wearing skirts and dresses. They were cute but I couldn't stand the absurd little shoes they required. The shoes slipped on wax floors, sank into the grass when you got into your car, went pointy for a few years just to pinch your toes and were generally a hazard to healthy feet and ankles.

Thank you, all of you Yuppie women and teenagers who made it okay to wear flat shoes, athletic shoes and even socks with skirts. I can walk! (I can even run if nobody's looking, which comes in handy when I'm in a hurry, and I'm always that.)

I appreciate the person, male or female, who did away with confining, tight fashions that made all the spandex underwear necessary. Maybe a lot of us are too flabby to wear aerobics tights in public, but at least we don't have to wear a pantygirdle to be able to sit down gracefully in a skirt.

The only place I want elastic is the top of my thigh-high stockings. Those things beat pantyhose in the heat and the humidity we have here, which must have killed women regularly when the "in" look required long skirts and several petticoats.

Regular thigh-highs have nothing to hold them up, making it necessary to buy another annoying device men may find beautiful but women find painful—a garter belt.

Recently I read that garter belts are popular again, especially with young women. Well, when the elastic wore out on a pair of stockings that hadn't run yet, I tried one.

My husband Joe thought it was gorgeous. The belt itself is—it's totally covered with lace—but try sitting on those nasty hooks through a county board meeting and you'll never wear it again.

"I am convinced that high heels were designed by a man who had trouble with his women running away."

I'll give it to a playboy bachelor friend to hang on his rearview mirror, I guess. It looks like it was designed for something like that anyway.

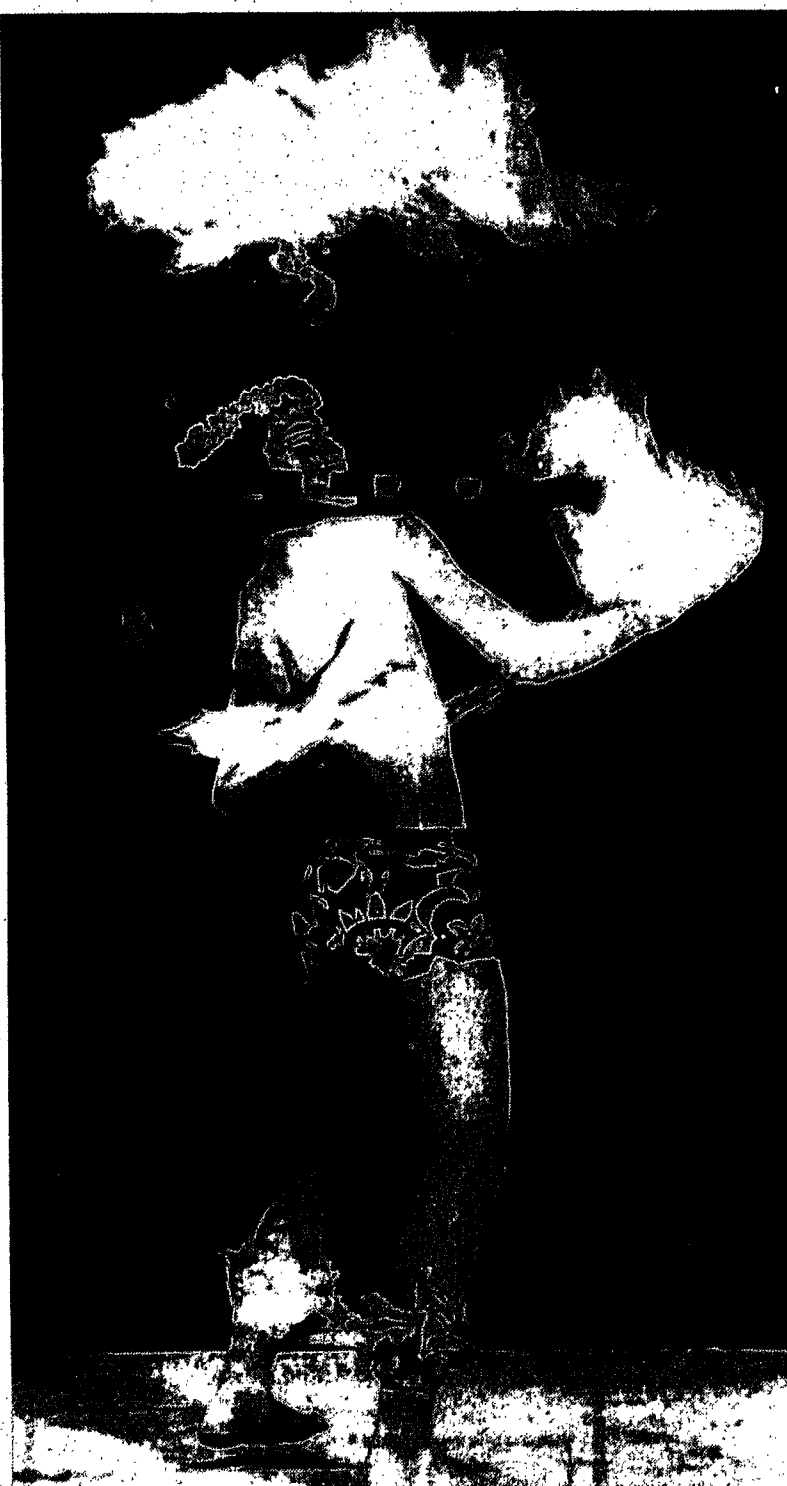

I know women who spend what I consider outrageous amounts of money and time to look fashionable. They have the right and I have my own expensive hobbies.

I'll just stick to being comfortable. If you please, Brenda, I want the sort of clothes that fall into fashion mold, very well made, but variety, just like as women do.

I could get practical and say that we should be more like men. Their clothes are not nearly as diverse in style and they are not advertised to death about changing their style each season.

Besides, their clothes don't include torture devices, except for be neckties.

I'd bet the designer who created the necktie was a woman. It was probably the girlfriend of the man who designed high heels.

FLAMING KNIFE DANCE—A South Sea Islands Luau will be hosted at the Diamondhead Country Club Friday evening, October 7, featuring entertainment by "Pearls of the Pacific". The group tours the United States with an ensemble of dancers with authentic costumes, singers and musicians performing Hawaiian hulas, Samoan ceremonial and knife dances straight from the Islands. Reservations are $15.00 per person plus tax and gratuity and are available by calling 255-2525.

St. Stanislaus holds 'Big Brother-Little Brother' program

St. Stanislaus High School sponsored a 'Big Brother-Little Brother' program on Wednesday, Sept. 21 in the school chapel. The purpose of this program was to have a senior (as a big brother) assigned to each sixth and seventh grade student to help him in his first year at St. Stanislaus.

Mick Quinlan, senior class advisor, welcomed the students and their parents and friends. Brother Albert Guarino, campus minister, opened the program with a prayer and a blessing of the candles that would be used by the sixth and seventh graders and the seniors. Brother Paul Montero, principal of St. Stanislaus, addressed the students on the importance of supporting one another.

Senior John Baxter, president of the St. Stanislaus Student Council, spoke on behalf of the seniors, and Neil Heitzmann, a seventh grade student, spoke on behalf of the little brothers.

Each senior accompanied his little brother in lighting a candle to symbolize a closer relationship during the present

Ole Miss enrollment records 4% increase

Fall enrollment on The University of Mississippi's Oxford campus is the second highest in history at 9,639 students. This is up by 367 students, or 4 percent, from last fall and the fourth consecutive year for an increase.

The 9,639 total fell just short of the record high 9,655 students recorded in fall 1978.

In official statistics released Tuesday, the university also reported a 5 percent rise in full-time students to 9,066. Undergraduate enrollment is up by 189 students, primarily due to an increase of 58 freshmen and 181 seniors.

Overall freshman enrollment of 2,161 is the highest in history, as is the senior class enrollment of 2,006.

Enrollment of first-time, full-time freshmen increased by 47 students to 1,604, the largest entering class since fall 1981.

Undergraduate enrollment was up in the College of Liberal Arts, 5.4 percent; Pharmacy, 4.3 percent; Education, 3.9 percent; Business Administration, 0.7 percent; and Law, 2.5

Gifted conference planned

The Mississippi Association for the Talented and Gifted (MATAG) will hold its 14th annual conference on Friday, Oct. 28 at the Holiday Inn Downtown in Jackson. Teachers, parents, administrators and others interested in gifted education are encouraged to attend the conference to take advantage of the opportunity to hear Dr. Mary Frasier, president of the National Association for the Talented and Gifted.

A complimentary hospitality room will be available from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 27. On Friday morning Dr. Frasier will speak to the general assembly. Later she will make two presentations during the concurrent sessions. Other presenters will offer practical ideas which will be useful to the teacher in the classroom. There will be a special session for parents of the gifted. Business matters to be discussed include statewide legislation for gifted education and revisions in the constitution and bylaws.

September is the month to join MATAG or to renew memberships. Dues are $10 for an individual and $15 for a family.

Conference fees, which include lunch, are $40 for members and $45 for non-members if they are postmarked on or before Oct. 14. On site registration is $50 for members or non-members.

Checks for dues or conference registration should be made payable to the Mississippi Association for the Talented and Gifted and should be mailed to Dorothy Myles, 4430 Robinway Dr., Moss Point, MS 39563.

Coast events named among top twenty

Six Mississippi events are among the top 20 events in the Southeast for October-December.

The Southeast Tourism Society, a regional promotional organization, selected the Mississippi Gulf Coast Oktoberfest in Gulfport and the Fall Pilgrimage in Natchez as outstanding October events.

The Old Biloxi Festival and the Mississippi Gulf Coast Jazz Society Jazz Fest, both held in Biloxi are the November choices, and Christmas in Natchez and the Christmas Parade on the River made the top 20 list for December.

Each event receives extensive promotion among the members of the Southeast Tourism Society and by the media. Among the major publications using this information are Southern Living, Travel Weekly and TravelScope, an AAA publication with a readership of three million people.

KNS Theatre Company to present 'Cabaret'

The Kinetic Neo Skene Theatre Company's production of Cabaret will use the talents of Mary Evans Weaver of Ocean Springs for its choreography duties. Weaver who is currently employed by the City of Ocean Springs Recreation Department, has been performing since age five.

She is a graduate of southwest Missouri State University and is a native of Kansas City, Kansas. After graduating from college in 1973, she toured in Music Man throughout Europe. Her talents also include performing, set design and construction as well as lighting design.

Her credits include choreographer for six years for the University Dance Company, dancer with the Newport Ballet, the Kansas City Lyric Opera and the Mid-West Jazz Dance Theater.

Weaver has appeared locally in Best Little Whore House in Texas, The Gazebo, The Music Man and Chorus Line.

KNS Theatre's production will be presented Oct. 21 and 22 for three performances at the Saenger Theatre for the Performing Arts, and will include a unique set design and lighting.

Cabaret is currently available at the Gulf Coast Arts Center in Biloxi, the People's Bank in Ocean Springs, the Ocean Springs Long Beach and the KNS Theatre in Bay St. Louis. Tickets are $10 for the Friday and Saturday evening performances and $8 on the Saturday matinee.

EDUCATION NOTES

Mississippi State boasts diverse gift list

If you think friends give you unusual gifts on birthdays and other special occasions, consider what friends of Mississippi State University gave the school in fiscal 1987-88:

- 1 microcomputer system.
- 1 autoclave.
- 120 rose bushes.
- 1 spectrophotometer.
- 1 cotton picker.
- 200 old time, music-playing machines.
- 17 sheep.
- 2 Arabian geldings.
- 1 modern art collection.
- 1 hole cutter.

Not counting scads of books, magazines, journals, and memorabilia, these gifts and 20 others—valued at $1.4 million—came to Mississippi State as gifts-in-kind (gifts other than cash, stocks and bonds) that the university can use in its teaching, research and service programs.

The microcomputer system consists of four workstations and related computer equipment. The value of the gift from Sun Microsystems Inc. to the electrical engineering department is $257,300. The department uses the system in designing microelectronic devices to solve problems associated with air and water flow around transportation vehicles.

The 120 rose bushes, valued at $546, came from Gene King of AGM Miniature Roses Inc. at Monroe, La. The department of plant pathology is using them in its rose-disease research.

An autoclave produces super heated steam under high pressure. Kerr-McGee Chemical Corporation donated the device, valued at $200,000, to the aerospace engineering department to assist in the fabrication of modern aerospace materials.

A spectrophotometer measures intensities of the light in different parts of a spectrum. Valued at $1,232, it is a gift from Perkin-Elmer Inc. at Norwalk, Conn. The Delta Branch Experiment Station at Stoneville uses the device in agricultural research.

The cotton picker is a $10,000 gift from Frank Mitchener of Sumner for use by the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station in its cotton research.

The highest valued gift-in-kind is the music machines, part of an extensive collection appraised by experts at $500,000. Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Templeton Sr. of Starkville donated the collection. He is a 1949 graduate of Mississippi State and a former member of the university's Famous Maroon Band.

In addition to the 200 music machines, the Templeton Collection comprises more than 20,000 pieces of sheet music and music memorabilia that date from the Civil War through the blues and ragtime eras and on up to 1940.

The music-playing machines include gramophones, graphophones, phonographs, and cylinder, disk, roll- and cobb-players that were household fixtures from about 1897 to 1930 when flappers in cloche hats and waistless dresses shimmed through the Cake Walk and kicked up their heels doing the Charleston.

After the university catalogs the collection, it will go on public display. Music students will use it as a research source.

The 17 sheep and two Arabian geldings went to the animal science department for teaching and research. They are part of six domestic-animal gifts from as many sources valued at $94,340.

The modern art collection includes nine works by 20th century artists such as Salvador Dali, Marc Chagall and Alexander Calder. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Featherstone of Jackson donated the collection as a memorial to their son before the senior Featherstone's death in May of 1988. He was a 1928 graduate of MSU. The collection, valued at $42,800, is in the art department.

And the hole cutter? That's an $80 tool from Par-Aide Products Co. at St. Paul, Minn. Mississippi State's Golf Course personnel use it to cut into the greens those small, round holes that players have so much trouble knocking their golf balls into.

Bay Junior High recipient of Mississippi Power grant

Bay Junior High School in Bay St. Louis has received a $1,250 grant from the Mississippi Power Foundation Inc. to purchase computer software for math education.

The software will allow students to interact with microcomputers to learn basic and advanced math skills.

"Computers have become an excellent teaching aide," project coordinator R. Alan Wilson said. "Our specific goal is to use this computer software to improve students' math scores on the eighth grade Mississippi Basic Skills Assessment Program test."

The Mississippi Power Foundation Inc. is a nonprofit organization formed by Mississippi Power Company to fund programs designed to improve education in the state.

Jordan joins USM alumni media staff

An August honor graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi has been named to the staff of the university's Alumni Association.

Kimberley Jordan, formerly of Brandon, was named to fill the position of publications editor/communicator for the association—one of the largest and most active of its kind in the nation.

Pearl River Community College receives Mississippi Humanities Council Grant

The Mississippi Humanities Council at its recent meeting awarded $74,150 for public humanities programs announced MHC Chair Dr. Ted Alexander.

Recipients were Jackson State University ($17,972), Delta State University ($8,596), Mississippi Department of Archives and History ($10,365), Friends of Louisiana Public Broadcasting ($5,950), Mississippi State Historical Museum ($9,278), Mississippi Valley State University ($6,134) for two projects, Mississippi University for Women ($3,500), Pearl River Community College ($3,152), and 11 minigrants totaling $9,203 to various civic organizations, public libraries and other non-profit groups.

The Pearl River Community College funds will be used to enliven American history and stimulate a debate about values in "The Return of Thomas Jefferson to Mississippi."

It will be presented at four locations. Scholar/actor Clay Jenkinson will give a presentation in the persona of Jefferson and entertain questions from the audience.

The Mississippi Humanities Council is funded by Congress through the National Endowment for the Humanities to regrant funds to non-profit groups in Mississippi for public programs in such traditional fields as history, literature, philosophy, foreign languages, the classics, and archaeology.

Since its beginnings in 1972, the MHC has received nearly $5,000,000 for public programs in Mississippi. All programs are non-partisan and open to the public. For information, contact Dr. Cora Norman, Mississippi Humanities Council, 3825 Ridgewood Road, Jackson 39211, 1-882-6752.

Air Force Thunderbirds to perform in Jackson

America's 'Ambassadors in Blue,' the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, will be in Jackson the first weekend in October to headline the largest air show in Central Mississippi history. This will be the Thunderbirds' first performance in the Jackson area in over 15 years. The air show is scheduled for Oct. 1 and 2, and is being held at the Jackson Air Guard Base at Allen C. Thompson Municipal Airport in Rankin County.

The show is being held in celebration of the 35th anniversary of the 172nd Military Airlift Group, Mississippi Air National Guard. The Jackson Air Guard unit is the only Guard unit in the country to be equipped with the C-141B Star-lifter aircraft.

The unit is hosting the show at their home base, which is located at the north end of the airport property, and is easily accessible from Hwy. 475 by way of either Lakeland Drive or Interstate 20.

In addition to the Thunderbirds, who will perform on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m., the air show will also include performances by the Eagles Aerobatic Flight Team, a world champion aerobatic team.

The flying acts include the Pepsi-Cola Skywriter, and demonstrations by military aircraft including the F-16 Eagle. Plans for a static display include the B-52 bomber, the C-5A Galaxy, the Air Force two-largest aircraft. Additionally, visitors will be able to view a wide array of modern aircraft from the Air Force and Air Guard inventory.

Static aircraft on display include the 172nd Military Airlift Group. The general public is invited to attend on both days beginning at 9 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m.

AIR FORCE THUNDERBIRDS—For the first time in more than 15 years, the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds are coming to Jackson. World-wide travellers, who are known as America's 'Ambassadors in Blue,' the Thunderbirds will be helping to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the 172nd Military Airlift Group, Mississippi Air National Guard, at its home base at the Allen C. Thompson Municipal Airport in Jackson. The event will include two full days of static display and aerial demonstrations on Oct. 1 and 2, with the Thunderbirds scheduled to perform at 2 p.m. on Sunday afternoon. Admission is free, and refreshments and souvenirs will be available. The Air Guard base will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

'Cigarettes kill'—a message to teens

Tobacco kills more than 1,000 people a day in the United States—a figure that is equivalent to the number of human deaths that would result if two fully-loaded jumbo jets were to collide head-on in mid-air every day. Jim Troxler finds that statistic shocking and wants to tell young people why.

As the Cancer Control coordinator for the Ochsner Cancer Institute, Troxler spends much of his time in schools throughout the New Orleans area, explaining to teenagers the hazards of smoking. Some listen. Others ignore him.

"Nationwide, over 4,000 people become new smokers every day—85 percent are teenagers," says Troxler. "I think there's a strong need to get a message to the youngsters about the dangers of smoking and do it now, because they are our future."

Troxler often quotes the words of the late Dr. Alton Ochsner Sr. who said: "Tobacco is a loaded, often lethal weapon. Time pulls the trigger." Dr. Ochsner, one of the founders of the Ochsner Medical Institutions, was the first physician to connect cigarette smoking to lung cancer.

In a typical learning session, students are shown a pair of freeze-dried human lungs. One lung is clean and white, the other is coated with a dark and spotty substance that indicates someone who has been smoking for several years and has lung cancer.

"That scares them," he says. "these kids are raised with images of super heroes who are going to last forever. Suddenly, they realize...maybe not."

Why are teens so susceptible to picking up the cigarette habit? The reasons vary by individual and may represent many influences from everyday living. One of the biggest influences is life at home.

"Seventy-five percent of the kids who start smoking come from families where one or both parents smoke," says Troxler. "Since the majority of learning cues come from parents, a child will see a parent smoke and automatically feel that it is okay, despite the warnings."

Peer pressure is another influence that persuades teenagers to light up, says Troxler. "These kids take chances and will do just about everything to fit in. Smoking is just one of many patterns of behavior found in this age range."

Advertising is probably the most visible of influences. "Each year, tobacco companies make nearly 30 billion dollars from the sale of cigarettes, according to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. To stay in business, a large number of new smokers must be created every day."

To accomplish this, cigarette producers create glossy, multi-million dollar advertising campaigns aimed at a variety of audiences. Although the campaigns are not allowed on TV or radio, they do find placement in newspapers, magazines, billboards and other media that teens are exposed to on a daily basis. "The message is clear," says Troxler. "If you smoke cigarettes, you're cool, macho, independent and beautiful. These are images that are appealing to teens hungry for attention and a sense of identity in today's world."

Troxler's presentation to school groups is broken into two to three sessions. One session covers the adverse effects smoking has on the body. Another consists of a film or slide presentation. Audio visuals include medical graphs, tables and various advertising campaigns aimed at youngsters. The question and answer period, which includes each lecture, quite often will reveal disturbing feedback from the students, says Troxler.

The nicotine in cigarettes is such a powerful drug, says Troxler, that a teen can develop a dependency for it within a short period of time. The number of cigarettes required to develop an addiction is not known, but once trapped, breaking the habit could be the biggest struggle a teen has ever faced; a struggle more intense than that experienced by the average adult.

"Adults are more aware of their own mortality," says Troxler. "You know that one day you will die. Heavy breathing, troublesome coughs and generally feeling under the weather, all serve to motivate us to quit. The teenager, however, views dying as something that happens to the elderly."

"Tobacco has been with us ever since there has been a country. It's been a part of the fabric of this country, woven into everyday life. It's been accepted for so long that it's hard to turn off. The Revolutionary War was financed with tobacco money. In both wars, soldiers were supplied cigarettes as an item of comfort," said Troxler.

"We didn't fully appreciate its dangers to society until the last several years. Now, it's time to do something before it's too late. Cigarettes kill."

IN BRIEF

The United States Department of Education has awarded a $48,000 grant for the Patricia Roberts Harris Fellowship Program at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The project is designed to encourage minority students to enter graduate school on a doctoral-level. Students in all disciplines at USM may be eligible for the fellowship program.

Three students will be awarded the fellowship each year, and each will receive a $10,000 stipend and a tuition waiver. The grant also provides each department represented by a Harris Fellowship recipient with $6,000 to cover the cost of any equipment that the student might need.

Students interested in the fellowship should contact the project's director, a USM associate professor in the Department of Science Education, Dr. Ernest Boykins. Students will be selected by a faculty committee following recommendation by their major department.

Schwegmann It's Worth The Trip!

Schwegmann Slidell is worth the short 20-minute trip from Picayune and points north or from the Bay St. Louis-Waveland-Pass Christian area. It's a true shopping experience with more than three times the variety of items than most stores, and at low Schwegmann prices. Whether you're shopping for a big family or small one, your weekly trip to Schwegmann more than pays for itself in money saved.

Schwegmann offers fresh, U.S.D.A. Choice meats that are guaranteed to please, plus a full selection of fresh seafood, produce and even imported cheeses. Your one trip to Schwegmann can also handle your other shopping needs, including party supplies, hardware items, housewares, sporting goods, automotive needs and more. Plenty of parking, buses welcome.
